L

Labour Day celebration in Trinidad and Tobago was declared an annual national holiday in 1973. Celebrated on June 19th, it is the anniversary of the day of the Butler Oilfield Riots which took place in 1937. Prior to this time there were ongoing tensions between workers and employers in many sectors of society. These were characterized by situations of worker abuse, underpayment for labour, racism, economic depression and a considerable fall in the living standards of the working class.

During a labour dispute on the Port-of-Spain wharves in November 1919, Captain Andrew Arthur Cipriani called on the workers to withhold their labour, and this resulted in their first important industrial strike in Trinidad.

Between 1934 and 1937 workers became more influenced by a need for change resulting in strikes and riots on the sugar plantations and in the oil fields and in September 1937, the Oilfield Workers Trade Union (OWTU) also became the first registered trade union in the country representing the rights of those in the petroleum industry. This social unrest then extended throughout the Caribbean and gave rise to several prominent labour leaders in Trinidad and Tobago such as Tubal Uriah "Buzz" Butler, Captain Andrew Arthur Cipriani, George Weekes, Albert Maria Gomes, Adrian Cola Rienzi, Elma Francois, and C.L.R James.

MONOGRAPHS

(Alphabetically listed by Title)

331.104 (729) GOO

Caribbean labour relations systems: an overview / by Samuel J. Goolsarran.

2nd ed.; Port-of-Spain, Trinidad and Tobago: International Labour Office, 2005.

This book presents some current issues confronting governments and the social partners – representatives of trade unions and employers and their organisations. It is also a comparative picture of the legal framework of many institutions of labour, procedures and various means for dispute settlement in the collective bargaining process, and generally for the conduct of industrial relations in the English and Dutch-speaking Caribbean.

331.881(729.87) RAM

Chattel Slave to wage earner: A History of Trade Unionism in Trinidad and Tobago / Ron Ramdin.

London: M. Brian & O'Keeffe, 1982.

This is the first history of Trade Unionism in Trinidad and Tobago and an important study of colonial and neo-colonial labour history. It provides a timely and useful perspective on the local labour movement. West Indian emigration is well known but little understood. Given also the country's recent industrialization and the wider implications of this, the reader concerned with the problems of underdevelopment in the Caribbean will find much of interest in this book.

329(729.87) TEE

Labour and party politics in Trinidad and Tobago 1925-1938 / by Jerome Teelucksingh.

Germany: Scholar's Press, 2013.

This study will demonstrate that TWA, transformed into the Trinidad Labour Party (TLP) in August 1934, along with independent candidates representing Labour laid the foundation for twentieth century party politics. The work will attempt to prove that the comprehensive organizational skills of the TWA/TLP in organising meetings, selecting candidates, campaigning for votes and debating issues on the electoral platform were determining factors which resulted in creditable performances in the municipal elections and ensured limited electoral victories in for elections - 1925, 1928, 1933, 1938.

349.2: 331(410) DEA

Labour law / by Simon Deakin and Gillian S. Morris.

6th ed.; Oxford: Hart Publishing Ltd., 2012.

This book sought to explain the contemporary law in a way which brings out the dynamic and continuously evolving nature of doctrine in this area, and in particular to show how it is shaped by the interaction between the principal sources of labour law (the common law, collective bargaining, social legislation and transnational labour standards). It also attempted to locate the law in its historical context; to make selective use, where appropriate, of comparative and international material; to consider areas of labour market regulation which are closely related to labour law.

349.2: 331(1-773) LAB

Labour law and worker protection in developing countries / edited by Tzehainesh Tekle.

Geneva; International Labour Office, 2010.

This book critically reviews the relevant literature and reflects upon the way in which workers' protection tends to be conceptualized, as well as on the adequacy of the legal categories and tools used to further it, with special attention given to the effectiveness of labour legislation in promoting gender equality.

331.109:349.2(729.87) KHA

The Law of Labour and Employment Disputes in Trinidad and Tobago / by Addison M. Khan.

England: The Derwent Press, 2006.

Trinidad and Tobago has a very advanced system for the settlement of unresolved labour and employment disputes between employers and trade union on behalf of the workers by judicial process. This book provides an important assessment of this unique system and gives useful guidance on the operation of the Industrial Relations Act Chap. 88:01 and the practice and procedures of the Industrial Court. It gives an insight into the unsatisfactory industrial relations climate that existed prior to the implementation of the new system and discusses the multifarious provisions of the Industrial Relations Act, and judgments of the Industrial Court on a variety of cases determined by it from 1965-2005.

27.584:331 MAX

Life at work: Marketplace success for people of faith / by John C. Maxwell, Stephen R. Graves and Thomas G. Addington.

Nashville, Tennessee: Nelson Business Publishers, 2005.

People of faith need to be comfortable and intentional in two worlds-the world of the kingdom and the world of the commercial-blending and balancing their roles in each. As such, this book helps identify the basic tools followers of Jesus should always have in their work toolbox: Calling, Serving, Character, and Skill.

159.944.4:331.101.6 WIL

Managing workplace stress: a best practice blueprint / by Stephen Williams and Lesley Cooper.

England: John Wiley and Sons Ltd, 2002.

This book offers a complete best practice briefing in a selected topic, along with a blueprint for successful implementation. The aim is to help enterprises achieve peak performance across key disciplines.

331.556 MIA

Migration, work and citizenship in the new global order / edited by Ronaldo Munck, Carl- Ulrik Schierup and Raul Delgado Wise.

Oxon; New York: Routledge, 2012.

This book posits a parallel development of precarious citizenship for migrants, made increasingly vulnerable by the global economic crisis. But we are also in an era of profound social transformation, in the context of which social counter-movements emerge, which may halt the disembedding of the market from social control and its corrosive impact.

342.729(410) MEA

The new law of peaceful protest: rights and regulation in the human rights act era / by David Mead.

Oxford; Portland: Hart Publishing, 2010.

The right to demonstrate is considered fundamental to any democratic system of government, yet in recent years it has received little academic attention. Setting out and explaining in detail the domestic legal framework that surrounds the right of peaceful protest, the book includes five central chapters that show how the right is defined: the restrictions on the choice of location of a protest; the constraints imposed on peaceful, persuasive protest; the near total intolerance of any form of obstructive or disruptive protest; the scope of preventive action by the police; and the extent to which commercial targets can avail themselves of private law remedies.
